Trump to award Tiger Woods the Presidential Medal of Freedom

Tiger won his fifth Masters and 15th major title on Sunday.

REUTERS

President Donald Trump on Monday said he would award Tiger Woods the Presidential Medal of Freedom after the golfer won the Masters for the fifth time on Sunday.

"Spoke to @TigerWoods to congratulate him on the great victory he had in yesterday's @TheMasters, & to inform him that because of his incredible Success & Comeback in Sports (Golf) and, more importantly, LIFE, I will be presenting him with the PRESIDENTIAL MEDAL OF FREEDOM," Trump tweeted.

The victory on Sunday was one of the greatest comebacks in sports history, as the 43-year-old ended an 11-year major title drought having overcome personal and professional setbacks including a highly public divorce and multiple surgeries.

The one-stroke win at Augusta National led to an outpouring of support from sports greats and politicians including Trump.

Trump, an avid golfer, and Woods have played together in the past including in February, when the pair joined golf great Jack Nicklaus for a round at Trump National Golf Club in Jupiter, Florida.

Trump appeared to follow the action at this year's Masters closely, tweeting well-wishes to the field on Saturday and encouraging people to tune in when Woods had the lead with just two holes left to play on Sunday.

"Congratulations to @TigerWoods, a truly Great Champion!" Trump tweeted shortly after Woods sank a short putt to secure his 15th major title.

"Love people who are great under pressure. What a fantastic life comeback for a really great guy!" he added later.

The medal is the highest civilian honor in the United States and is given annually to people who have made outstanding contributions to the security or national interests of the country, to world peace, or to cultural or other significant public or private endeavors.

Since taking office Trump has given the award to several athletes including former professional NFL players Roger Staubach and Alan Page and late professional baseball player George Herman "Babe" Ruth Jr. REUTERS

Trump calls Omar 'out of control' in latest attack

2 President Donald Trump attacked Democratic U.S. Rep. Ilhan Omar as an "out of control" purveyor of "hate" speech on Monday before leaving for a visit to the state the Muslim American represents in Congress. Writing on Twitter, Trump blasted both Omar and House Speaker Nancy Pelosi for defending Omar after he tweeted a video on Friday suggesting Omar had been dismissive of the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks. "Before Nancy, who has lost all control of Congress and is getting nothing done, decides to defend her leader, Rep. Omar, she should look at the anti-Semitic, anti-Israel and ungrateful U.S. HATE statements Omar has made," Trump said. "She is out of control, except for her control of Nancy!" Omar said on Sunday evening that she had experienced "an increase in direct threats on my life — many directly referencing or replying to the president's video." REUTERS

'GoT' premiere draws record 17.4M US viewers

3 Some 17.4 million Americans watched the first episode of the final season of television's "Game of Thrones" — a record audience for the medieval fantasy series, cable channel HBO said on Monday. HBO said Sunday's broadcast audience, including on its HBO GO and HBO NOW apps, exceeded the previous series high of 16.9 million viewers for 2017's season 7 finale. On social media, Sunday's premiere was also the most-tweeted-about episode of the show ever, with more than 5 million tweets, and 11 million mentions throughout the course of the weekend, HBO said in a statement. All of the top 10 global Twitter trends late Sunday evening were about the episode. The series set among warring families in the fictional kingdom of Westeros, which began in 2007, has become HBO's biggest hit. Season 7 averaged 32.8 million viewers per episode when delayed viewing was counted. REUTERS

Iconic Atlantic City bakery files for Chapter 7 bankruptcy

Near-century-old Formica Brothers faced multimillion-dollar lawsuits from two injured employees.

letters@metro.us

Formica Brothers, the 99-year-old company which makes bread for some of Atlantic City's most famous sandwich shops, has filed for Chapter 7 bankruptcy.

The bankruptcy was forced by two lawsuits filed after workplace accidents, said former owner Frank Formica in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

The business was founded in 1919 by Frank Formica's grandfather and grand-uncle and became a fixture on Arctic Avenue in Ducktown.

"It's tragic. This is my grandfather, my grandparents and my parents, and my family. We are being forced into this situation. I'm 67 years old. It's not exactly my exit strategy."
Frank Formica

"It's sad," said Formica. "It's tragic. This is my grandfather, my grandparents and my parents, and my family. We are being forced into this situation. I'm 67 years old. It's not exactly my exit strategy."

But Formica Brothers bread will still be made, at least for the time being. A local food manufacturer has leased the name, and 67 of the bakery's 71 current employees will be retained, the Inquirer reported. Formica Brothers will still provide bread for more than 280 shops, including White House and Sack-O-Subs.

The company faced two $5 million lawsuits brought by injured employees. In 2015, one worker's hand was crushed by a bread-making machine. In 2016, another employee's arm was amputated below the elbow after it was caught in a mobile conveyor. The Chapter 7 filing — which listed the company's assets at $675,416 and its liabilities at $5,740,436 — should discharge the suits.

The long-term economic situation in Atlantic City also contributed to the bankruptcy, said Formica, a Republican freeholder-at-large for Atlantic County. The area "has never become healthy or whole" after the 2008 recession, 2012's Hurricane Sandy, and the closure of five casinos around 2014, he told the Press of Atlantic City.

Formica Brothers is the latest of several longtime Atlantic City businesses to declare bankruptcy in recent years, including Tony's Baltimore Grill. "Every iconic business has suffered from the downturn of economy," Formica said in the Inquirer. "The foreclosure rate in Atlantic County is the highest in the country. We had a loss of 35,000 jobs, five casino closings. That took a toll on us."

Pat McKenna, a local food manufacturer and new leaseholder of the Formica Brothers name and recipe, said the bread will be made the same way. "If it's not made in Atlantic City, it's not 'Atlantic City bread,'" he told the Press. "I'm told it's the water."

Philly man in court for pretrial motions in Bucks County murders

Sean Kratz, the 22-year-old Philadelphia man charged in the 2017 murders of four Bucks County men, was in court Monday for a pretrial hearing.

Kratz's cousin, Cosmo DiNardo, pleaded guilty to the four slayings last May and was sentenced to four consecutive life terms in prison.

Kratz is accused of assisting DiNardo in the killings, luring the four men to a Solebury Township farm on the pretense of selling them marijuana, then killing them and burying their bodies on the property. Kratz is charged with homicide, conspiracy, robbery and other offenses related to three of the four killings.

Kratz's trial was originally scheduled to begin Monday. Instead, Kratz's new defense lawyer asked to appear at the Bucks County Courthouse for a pretrial motion hearing.

In May, Kratz rejected a plea deal that would have taken the death penalty off the table in exchange for 59 to 118 years in prison. According to WFMZ, Kratz's defense lawyer admitted to releasing confession tapes of Kratz and DiNardo the next day. Kratz's new lawyers argue that the tapes should be ruled inadmissible at trial.

Kratz is charged in the slayings of Dean Finocchiaro, 19, of Middletown; Thomas Meo, 21, of Plumstead Township; and Mark Sturgis, 22, of Pennsburg. DiNardo was accused of killing those three men and Jimi Patrick, 19, of Newtown.

In a January court appearance, Kratz's defense attorney Julianne Bateman asked the judge presiding over the case to impanel an out-of-town jury, arguing that Bucks County residents had been saturated with news coverage of the murders and could not be impartial. "The people in Bucks County are most attached to this," she said.

"I think we owe it to Bucks County to choose from its own residents."

District Attorney Gregg Shore

"I think we owe it to Bucks County to choose from its own residents," District Attorney Gregg Shore countered, according to the Philadelphia Inquirer. Ultimately, a local jury was selected.

Prosecutors said they are seeking the death penalty for Kratz.

Paris' iconic Notre-Dame Cathedral gutted by fire, but structure saved

The risk of an interior collapse remained a possibility.

Fire at Notre-Dame Cathedral in Paris. ALL REUTERS IMAGES

Sparks fill the air as Paris Fire brigade members spray water to extinguish flames.

A massive fire consumed Notre-Dame Cathedral on Monday, gutting and destroying the roof of the Paris landmark and stunning France and the world, but firefighters said they had saved the shell of the stone structure from collapse.

Flames that began in the early evening burst rapidly through the roof of the centuries-old cathedral and engulfed the spire, which toppled, quickly followed by the entire roof.

As it burned into the evening, firefighters battled to prevent one of the main bell towers from collapsing. One firefighter was seriously injured.

"We now believe that the two towers of Notre-Dame have been saved," Paris Fire chief Jean-Claude Gallet told reporters at the scene. "We now consider that the main structure of Notre-Dame has been saved and preserved."

There was still a risk that some of the interior structures could collapse, and firefighters would work overnight to cool them down, he said.

Distraught Parisians and stunned tourists gazed in disbelief as the inferno raged at the cathedral, which sits on the Ile de la Cite, an island in the River Seine, and marks the very center of Paris.

Thousands of onlookers lined bridges over the Seine and along its embankments, held at a distance by a police cordon.

World leaders expressed shock and sent condolences to the French people. President Emmanuel Macron said the whole nation was distressed. "Like all our compatriots, I am sad this evening to see this part of all of us burn," he tweeted.

A huge plume of smoke wafted across the city and ash fell over a large area. People watching gasped as the spire folded over onto itself and fell into the inferno.

Firefighters battled smoke and falling drops of molten lead to salvage priceless artworks and relics.

A centuries-old crown of thorns made from reeds and gold and the tunic worn by Saint Louis, a 13th-century king of France, were saved, Notre-Dame's top administrative cleric, Monsignor Patrick Chauvet said. But firefighters had struggled to take down some of the large paintings in time, he said.

The Paris prosecutors' office said it had launched an inquiry into the fire. Several police sources said that they were working on the assumption for now that it was accidental.

"Everything is collapsing," a police officer near the scene said as the cathedral continued to burn.

Macron, who canceled an address to the nation that he had been due to give on Monday evening, went to the scene of the blaze and talked to officials trying to contain it.

The French Civil Security service, possibly responding to U.S. President Donald Trump's suggestion that firefighters "act quickly" and employ flying water tankers, said that was not an option as it might destroy the entire building. German Chancellor Angela Merkel called the cathedral a "symbol of France and our European culture." British Prime Minister Theresa May said her thoughts were with the French people and emergency services fighting the "terrible blaze."

The Vatican said the fire at the "symbol of Christianity in France and in the world" had caused shock and sadness and said it was praying for the firefighters.

The mayor of Paris, Anne Hidalgo, said at the scene that some of many artworks that were in the cathedral had been taken out and were being put in safe storage.

The cathedral, which dates back to the 12th century, features in Victor Hugo's classic novel "The Hunchback of Notre-Dame." It is a UNESCO World Heritage site that attracts millions of tourists every year.

It is a focal point for French Roman Catholics who, like Christians around the world, are celebrating Holy Week, marking the death and resurrection of Jesus.

The archbishop of Paris called on all priests in Paris to ring church bells as a gesture of solidarity for Notre-Dame.

"I have a lot of friends who live abroad and every time they come I tell them to go to Notre-Dame," said witness Samantha Silva, with tears in her eyes.

"I've visited it so many times, but it will never be the same. It's a real symbol of Paris."

The cathedral was in the midst of renovations, with some sections under scaffolding, and bronze statues were removed last week for work.

Built over a century starting in 1163, Notre-Dame is considered to be among the finest examples of French Gothic cathedral architecture.

It is renowned for its rib vaulting, flying buttresses and stunning stained-glass windows, as well as its many carved stone gargoyles.

Its 330-foot roof, of which a large section was consumed in the first hour of the blaze, was one of the oldest such structures in Paris, according to the cathedral's website.

A center of Roman Catholic faith, over the centuries Notre-Dame has also been a target of political upheaval.

It was ransacked by rioting Protestant Huguenots in the 16th century, pillaged again during the French Revolution of the 1790s and left in a state of semi-neglect. Hugo's 1831 work led to revived interest in the cathedral and a major — partly botched — restoration that began in 1844.

The wood-and-lead spire was built during that restoration, according to the cathedral's website.

"Notre-Dame belonged to all humanity. What a tragic spectacle. What horror. I share the French nation's sadness."

Jean-Claude Juncker, pres. of European Union's executive Commission

"Notre-Dame belonged to all humanity. What a tragic spectacle," tweeted Jean-Claude Juncker, president of the European Union's executive Commission.

Measles cases surge nearly 20 percent in early April

The CDC has recorded 555 cases since Jan. 1.

The number of confirmed cases of measles in the United States this year jumped by nearly 20 percent in the week ended April 11 in the country's second-worst outbreak in nearly two decades, federal health officials reported on Monday.

As of April 11, the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) recorded 555 cases of the disease since the beginning of the year, up from 465 cases confirmed by April 4. The cases were found in 20 states spanning the country.

The measles virus is highly contagious and can lead to deadly complications, particularly in children. The CDC report did not say whether there had been any fatalities.

The U.S. outbreak is part of a worldwide rise. The World Health Organization reported on Monday that global cases had risen nearly fourfold in the first quarter of 2019 to 112,163 compared with the same period last year.

A growing and vocal fringe of parents in the United States oppose measles vaccines believing, contrary to scientific evidence, that ingredients in the vaccines can cause autism or other disorders.

The United States declared that measles had been eliminated from the country in 2000, meaning the virus was no longer present year-round. But outbreaks still happen each year, typically when unvaccinated people travel to the country from parts of the world where the disease is still common.

New York City has recorded at least 285 cases of measles since October, according to local health officials, the large majority among members of the Orthodox Jewish communities in Brooklyn.

Mayor Bill de Blasio declared the outbreak a public health emergency last week and ordered unvaccinated people in the affected parts of Brooklyn to get the vaccine or face a fine. It is the worst outbreak seen in the city since 1991, the mayor said.

The CDC recorded 555 cases of measles since the beginning of the year, up from 465 cases confirmed by April 4.

Most of the Brooklyn cases are among children. Several people had to be hospitalized but no fatalities had been reported as of last week.

New York health officials said the Brooklyn outbreak was caused by an unvaccinated child returning from a trip to Israel, which is also grappling with an outbreak.

Health officials said they had seen anti-vaccination pamphlets containing misinformation being distributed in the affected parts of Brooklyn.

Another outbreak has hit Orthodox Jewish families in New York's Rockland County. Officials there banned children not vaccinated against measles from public spaces last month.

That order was overturned by a state judge, a decision being appealed by Rockland officials. REUTERS

Attorney general to release redacted Mueller report on Thursday

Attorney General William Barr plans on Thursday morning to release a redacted version of Special Counsel Robert Mueller's report on Russian interference in the 2016 U.S. election and contacts between Moscow and President Donald Trump's campaign, the Justice Department said on Monday.

Department spokeswoman Kerri Kupec did not provide a precise time, but said the report, which Barr has described as nearly 400 pages long, will be released both to Congress and the public.

Moments after the department announced its plans for releasing the report, the Republican president went to Twitter to make another attack on Mueller's team and derided the "Russia Hoax." The Mueller investigation has cast a cloud over the presidency of Trump, who has often called it a politically motivated "witch hunt."

Mueller turned over a copy of his confidential report to Barr on March 22, ending his 22-month-long inquiry. Two days later, Barr released a four-page letter summarizing what he said were Mueller's primary conclusions. In that letter to Congress, Barr said Mueller's investigation did not establish that members of Trump's election campaign conspired with Russia.

Barr also wrote that Mueller presented evidence "on both sides" about whether Trump obstructed justice, but he did not draw a conclusion one way or the other. Barr said that he had reviewed Mueller's evidence and made his own determination that Trump did not commit the crime of obstruction of justice.

Barr has been under pressure from Democrats to release the full report without redactions. Barr, a Trump appointee, has pledged to be as transparent as possible. But he has said he will redact some sensitive information, including grand jury information and information about U.S. intelligence-gathering.

"I think spying did occur. But the question is whether it was adequately predicated."
William Barr, U.S. attorney general

After Barr released his four-page letter, Trump claimed "complete and total exoneration," condemned "an illegal takedown that failed" and accused unnamed political enemies of treasonous acts.

The redactions in the report will be color-coded by category, according to Barr, explaining the reasons that parts are blacked out.

Since Barr released his letter, Trump has set his sights on the FBI, and accused the Justice Department of improperly targeting his campaign. Last week, Barr told a U.S. Senate panel he believed that "spying" did occur on Trump's campaign, and he plans to investigate whether it was properly authorized.

"I think spying did occur," Barr, the top U.S. law enforcement officer, told the lawmakers. "But the question is whether it was adequately predicated."

Barr's comments were criticized by Democrats, who are already skeptical of how the attorney general has handled the report's release. REUTERS

Explainer: Is Julian Assange heading to the United States? What's next?

Currently in a London prison, Assange is wanted for one of the largest compromises of classified information in U.S. history.

REUTERS

British police dragged Julian Assange from the Ecuadorean embassy last Thursday after his asylum was revoked, ending his seven-year stay there and opening the way for his extradition to the United States.

Assange's supporters, who cast him as a dissident facing the wrath of a superpower, fear the 47-year-old will end up on trial in the United States.

The United States wants Assange for one of the largest compromises of classified information in U.S. history.

What happens now?

WHY WAS HE IN THE ECUADORIAN EMBASSY?

Assange took refuge in the Ecuadorian embassy in June 2012 to avoid being extradited to Sweden, where authorities wanted to question him as part of a preliminary sexual assault investigation.

That investigation was later dropped but because he had breached his British bail in 2012, he was arrested last week and found guilty of failing to surrender to Westminster Magistrates' Court.

Following his arrest, U.S. prosecutors announced charges against him and Swedish prosecutors are considering reopening the rape investigation.

WILL ASSANGE END UP IN SWEDEN OR THE U.S.?

The courts will have to rule on any extradition request and Home Secretary Sajid Javid would decide which takes precedence.

Nick Vamos, lawyer at London-based firm Peters & Peters and former head of extradition at Britain's Crown Prosecution Service, said the home secretary would take into account the seriousness of the offense and which request was issued first, and expected a Swedish one would take supremacy.

"Even though technically it would be a reissued request, in effect it would be just a repeat of the request that was issued many years ago and therefore it would be treated as if it was the earliest one," he said.

"The U.S. government can wait a bit longer. They've taken quite a long time to sort out whether they were ever going to charge him or not.

"We don't know what happened in Sweden, we don't know whether he committed that offense and there's a victim there who's been waiting for justice for many years and I think that should take priority." REUTERS

Fix and 'rebrand' 737 MAX jets, Trump tells Boeing

President Donald Trump on Monday urged Boeing to fix and "rebrand" its 737 MAX jetliner following two fatal crashes, as regulators worldwide continue to work with the planemaker to review its grounded best-selling aircraft.

The Federal Aviation Administration has been meeting major airlines and convened a joint review with aviation regulators from other countries, while federal prosecutors, the U.S. Department of Transportation inspector general's office and a blue-ribbon panel are reviewing the plane's certification.

In an early-morning post on Twitter, Trump, who owned the Trump Shuttle airline from 1989 to 1992 and is an aviation enthusiast, weighed in with his own advice.

"What do I know about branding, maybe nothing (but I did become President!), but if I were Boeing, I would FIX the Boeing 737 MAX, add some additional great features, & REBRAND the plane with a new name. No product has suffered like this one. But again, what the hell do I know?" Trump tweeted.

REUTERS

The plane's grounding has also threatened the U.S. summer travel season, with some airlines removing the 737 from their schedules through August.

Trump issued the tweet as Boeing tries to restore trust in its fastest-selling jet, the main source of profits and cash at the Chicago-based planemaker which has won some 5,000 orders or around seven years of production for the aircraft.

Chief Executive Dennis Muilenburg has apologized on behalf of Boeing for lives lost in two recent accidents and promised that it would address the risk that flight software meant to prevent the plane stalling could be activated by wrong data.

Boeing has also held dozens of briefings and simulator sessions for airline executives and pilots and held worldwide meetings with airline branding and communications staff.

Pilots are expected to play a major role in regaining public confidence in the aircraft, but Trump's tweet marks the first time the brand underpinning Boeing profits in coming years has been thrown into question at such a high level. REUTERS

How does your child's sleep affect his/her health?

We want to hear your thoughts on how to help children get a good night's sleep and improve their overall health!

Researchers at Temple University are conducting a research study to learn more about how changes in sleep affect children's weight status and type 2 diabetes risk.

To be eligible, your child must:
Be 8-14 years old
Sleep 9.5 hours or less each night

Families who are eligible and enroll in the study will be compensated for their time.

Assessments can be scheduled at either:

- Temple University (3223 N. Broad Street) or
- The Children's Hospital of Philadelphia (CHOP; 34th St and Civic Center Blvd).

Loughlin pleads not guilty in college admissions case

An additional charge of conspiring to commit money laundering was added April 9.

Actress Lori Loughlin said on Monday she will plead not guilty to charges that she participated in what prosecutors say was the largest college admissions scandal uncovered in U.S. history.

Loughlin, who starred in the television sitcom "Full House," and her fashion designer husband Mossimo Giannulli filed papers in federal court in Boston seeking to waive their personal appearances at an arraignment hearing and have not guilty pleas entered on their behalf.

They are among 50 people accused of participating in a scheme that allowed wealthy parents to use cheating and bribes to help their children secure spots at universities like Yale, Georgetown and the University of Southern California (USC).

California college admissions adviser William "Rick" Singer has pleaded guilty to charges that he facilitated cheating on college entrance exams and bribed coaches at universities to falsely present the parents' children as athletic recruits.

Loughlin, 54, and Giannulli agreed with Singer to pay $500,000 to have their two daughters named as recruits to USC's crew team, prosecutors said, even though they did not row competitively, to help them gain admission.

The couple and several other parents were originally charged with conspiracy to commit mail and wire fraud. Prosecutors secured an indictment on April 9 that included an additional charge of conspiring to commit money laundering.

In all, 33 parents have been charged in the college admissions scandal. Of those, 14 have agreed to plead guilty, including "Desperate Housewives" TV star Felicity Huffman. REUTERS

Aries Pick your battles carefully. You have plenty to gain if you are steadfast, industrious and to the point. Keep idle chatter to a minimum and focus on your objective.

Taurus Lessons from the past will help you recognize the possibilities heading your way. Spend time with the people you love and care about most. Romance is highlighted.

Gemini Watch what others are doing. If you are aware of what's going on around you, it will be easier to deter others from manipulating or taking advantage of you.

Cancer Home and family should be your priorities. How you use your time will affect the way someone treats you. Don't take on responsibilities that don't belong to you.

Leo Channel your energy into something constructive to improve your chances to advance. Consider your options and choose the one that is most reliable and affordable.

Virgo Your intuition won't let you down. Follow your heart when dealing with loved ones. Use discipline to offset excessive behavior. Romance will improve your life.

Libra Make choices and stick to your plans. You are best off being secretive until you feel satisfied with what you have accomplished. Don't let criticism discourage you.

Scorpio You don't have to spend money or overdo it to have a good time. Hang out with people who stimulate you intellectually and those who encourage you to be and do your best.

Sagittarius Consider how to best use your skills and experience to combat someone interfering in your affairs. Stay in control, and don't share personal information.

Capricorn Get ready to make your move. Take advantage of an opportunity that will increase your earning power. Don't rely on someone else to do things for you. Take charge and finish what you start.

Aquarius Take the initiative to improve your surroundings. Get involved in activities or joint ventures that can offer equality and high returns for everyone involved. Be wary of anyone making unrealistic promises.

Pisces When in doubt, ask questions and be honest. If you let a situation escalate, someone will goad you into an emotional argument. Stick to the truth, gather facts and be patient. EUGENIA LAST

City of edible love

StarChefs 2019 will highlight the city's best culinary connoisseurs this Tuesday.

MOLLY GIVEN
Molly.Given@metro.us

Philadelphia is an amazing city with a lot to offer. Anyone who lives in the City of Brotherly Love knows just how much culture there truly is with the sports, art, architecture, and of course food. The culinary scene here is remarkable. You can get just about anything from any part of the world within the city limits. To spotlight all of the exciting edible happenings, StarChefs, the national restaurant industry magazine, is honoring some of the top chefs, pastry chefs, bartenders, sommeliers and artisans in Philly. The magazine met with 100 talented food and drink connoisseurs when compiling their list of 2019 Philadelphia Rising Stars award winners, and all will be recognized at the StarChefs Gala this Tuesday, April 16.

StarChefs' main goal is to honor up-and-coming chefs and hospitality professionals who represent the vanguard of the contemporary American dining scene. According to the release, StarChefs' original content is driven by in-person tastings and interviews across the world, and its mission is to catalyze culinary professionals' success and give them tools to overcome specific challenges. Now in its 14th year, StarChefs is hosting the annual International Chefs Congress, an industry-only symposium featuring the world's preeminent culinary talent. StarChefs has held awards in 22 cities and regions across the country since 2003. This will be the 65th class of Rising Stars and the third from Philadelphia.

"In a city with a storied French pedigree, our team ate Malaysian kebabs grilled over imported coconut charcoal, fiery Thai herb salads, crispy fried bao, pastrami-stuffed bing and Tokyo-style sushi—not to mention the "Phoagie," Middle Child's love letter to Philadelphia's sandwich culture and Vietnamese community," said Antoinette Bruno, StarChefs editor-in-chief, in a statement.

StarChefs Senior Editor Caroline Hatchett also had a lot to say about the city's culinary scene. "Philadelphia loves its carbs, and we love them back. The city has one of the most vibrant artisan bread scenes in the country, an abiding devotion to doughnuts, its own bagel style, and perhaps the best babka in the country."

All the fun begins at 5:30 p.m. with the VIP reception. At 6:15 p.m., the awards ceremony will be held at the Liberty View at Independence Visitor Center (599 Market St.). Then at 7 p.m., there will be a Tasting Gala held at the Curtis Atrium (601 Walnut St.). The Tasting Gala will give Philadelphians the opportunity to sample some of the most decadent, enticing and unique culinary creations that the city has to offer.

The chefs and dishes to be highlighted at the event include Tyler Akin from Stock (showcasing his Khao Tod Neua with Lone Mountain wagyu, curry rice cakes, cilantro and mint); Matt Harper from Kensington Quarters (braised short rib with mole, fermented chiles and confit carrots); Jesse Ito from Royal Sushi & Izakaya (Kumamoto oyster sushi with sudachi, soy sauce and chives); Michael Vincent Ferreri from Res Ipsa Cafe (monkfish cavatelli with orange, saffron and breadcrumbs); and Alexander Yoon from Little Fish (Verlasso salmon with preserved ramp vinaigrette and citrus).

The Game Changer Award will go to Chad Williams from Friday Saturday Sunday for his brussels sprouts made with smoked celery root purée, citrus chawanmushi, sunchoke chimichurri and mushroom-sherry broth. The Community Award will go to Matt Cahn, owner of Middle Child, for his Phoagie made with eggplant, avocado, cilantro and pho sauce on a sesame hoagie. And the Sustainability Award will go to Judy Ni and Andy Tessier from Bāo-logy for their king oyster mushroom gwa bao.

Pastry chefs to be honored include Camille Cogswell from Zahav, Tova du Plessis from Essen Bakery and Samantha Kincaid from Cadence. Bartender Paul MacDonald from Friday Saturday Sunday will also be honored along with artisan baker Alex Bois from Lost Bread Co., artisan roaster Evan Inatome from Elixr Coffee, concept artist Nicole Marquis from HipCityVeg, restaurateurs Nick Kennedy and Greg Root from Defined Hospitality, and sommeliers Alexandra Cherniavsky from The Love and Samantha Germani from Lacroix.

There will be host chefs, guest chefs, guest sommeliers and "VIP Host Chefs" at the event as well, along with two more awards being presented: the Art of Presentation Award and the Mentor Award.

General admission tickets are $95 and grant access to the Tasting Gala. VIP tickets are $125 and grant access to the VIP Reception with Champagne Nicolas Feuillatte, along with the Awards Ceremony and Tasting Gala. Comedian Alonzo Bodden is hitting the stage in Philly this week.

MOLLY GIVEN
Molly.Given@metro.us

Comedian Alonzo Bodden is coming to Philly this week to hit the stage at Helium Comedy Club from April 18 to 20 (check the club's official site for times). Bodden is known for his no-holds-barred social commentary, hilarious viewpoint and overall bold outlook on the world today. But Bodden isn't in the comedy game to shove his viewpoints down anyone's throat or to try to butcher anyone's opinions. The New York native simply wants to highlight how comical the world is despite the hate and negativity that surround the news today. Bodden sat down with Metro to talk about his career, how his act is always evolving and what to expect from his show.

How would you describe your comedy to someone who has maybe never seen or heard you?
Topical, snarky, common-sense and a truth-teller.

You're known for your social and political commentary. Does your stand-up involve that as well?
Oh yes, that's my favorite thing about stand-up, talking about the issues and talking about what's going on. I think Carlin was the greatest ever at social commentary, and I was once described as the spawn of Carlin, which I took as a pretty high compliment.

You have had quite the career so far. You've worked for Trevor Noah, NPR, Jay Leno and you host your own podcast. What would you say have been some high points of your career and, on the flip side, some low points?
Well, highlights include being a part of the Montreal Comedy Festival, which is the biggest in the world, and winning "Last Comic Standing." I've worked with so many legends in comedy as well, including Don Rickles, George Wallace, Jay Leno, George Carlin. Those would be highlights, working with people like that. You know, there aren't too many lowlights onstage. I don't even know if it's a lowlight or it's just really funny, but I grew up in New York and I started my career in L.A. I went back to New York and I actually performed in a little club in my old neighborhood where I grew up, and I got booed off the stage. It was early in my career, and I didn't just get booed off the stage, I actually got booed out the door and onto the street. Yeah, it was not good. I liken it to me opening up for a Trump rally after giving them my NPR credits.

TODD ROSENBERG PHOTOGRAPHY

You're traveling a lot this year with your stand-up. What do you like the most about bringing your comedy on the road?
I get to see the people, and I get to talk to people. My comedy is all about interaction. Plus, I get to see so many parts of the country. We have truly become two countries, one red and one blue. It's funny, in L.A. I used to tell people [that] as much as California loves Barack Obama, that's how much Alabama can't stand Barack Obama. Now it's the opposite. When Trump says something that is utterly ridiculous, I remind people, you know millions of people believe what he just said. We are in a different era now. We are in an era of fabrication and ridiculousness and so on. So that's what I get to see in my national travel. My international travel, well, when you get to go to different countries it gives you such a great perspective on the world. I mean, having been through the Middle East, from Iraq to Kuwait to Egypt to Jordan to Israel and so on, you see the relationships and you see the people and you realize, oh wait, these people don't spend all day hating each other and trying to kill each other. They go to work and try to feed their kids, pretty much like humans. You see things like that and it's fascinating. Or seeing the history of the world. Those are the big benefits of travel. Then sometimes I go places where I never would expect, like Pakistan. Not high on the tourist list but I got to see them, so it's pretty cool.

You talked a little bit about the sensitive social climate the country is in today. Does that ever come into play with your comedy when you travel to different states?
Rarely do I adjust for a club show. If I'm doing a corporate event or if they hired me to do something, then I'm probably not going to get too political. But when I'm in a club, I speak my truth. What happens is, they'll be some that get angry and they'll be some people that leave, which means I'm doing it right. But quite often people are like, "I don't agree with you but I think you're really funny." I don't encounter as much as other comics because, let's face it, I'm a black comic and they kind of know where I stand regarding racism and right-wing politics. They don't walk into shows thinking, now this guy should be really pro-Trump.

When you first started your career, were you interested in comedy and then figured it fit with the social and political climate, or were you more interested in politics and then the comedy just was birthed from there?

"I get to see the people, and I get to talk to people. My comedy is all about interaction."

I started out doing more personal material, telling stories about my life, my dating and my family. It was really during "Last Comic Standing" and after the show that I became more topical. It became more fun to joke about what happened [that] week. I began to find politics and social issues funnier than my life. So I would definitely say it changed after the show. But now I'm actually starting to try and look back into my personal stuff and trying to bring more of that out.

Do you have anything else coming up that fans can look out for?
Yes, I have a special coming out on Amazon. I recorded it at the end of 2018 and it will be released this year. The only thing about being a topical comic and doing specials and CDs is, time moves so fast. I could be talking about something from six months ago and it seems like a lifetime. In the time it takes to produce it, you're just like, wow, the narrative has changed again. You have to keep up. My show is continuously evolving.

Overall, what would you tell Philly audiences to expect from your show?
Expect a topical update. Expect anything. It can be as ridiculous as the news. It's gonna be funny, it's gonna be my opinion and you might be surprised at what you laugh at.

'The Big Bang Theory' family prepares to say goodbye

TV show sets are a dynamic and inspiring place to be.

GREGORY WAKEMAN
GregoryWakeman@metro.us

It's a workplace like no other, as more than 200 highly trained and meticulous technicians, operators and staff have to be ready to instantly alter their schedules and approaches so that both the written script and moments of spontaneity can be captured and created.

When it comes to filming the final season of a show, all of the above are doubly true, as the cast and crew make sure that it goes out on a high. At the same time, though, there's an additional complication. One nobody is ready to talk about. Because the end of a hugely popular show means that everyone involved is trying to process the pain, tears and grief that come with its conclusion.

No show over the last decade has been as popular as "The Big Bang Theory," and the taping of "The Conference Valuation," the 17th episode of its 12th and final season, which Metro was recently invited to attend, was fraught with emotion — and not just from those who work on "The Big Bang Theory."

Over the course of the four-hour taping, Mark Sweet, the warm-up comic for the show, whose job it is to keep the crowd entertained and bubbling with laughs in between takes and setups, invites those in attendance to open up about what the show has meant to them.

At least a quarter of the dozen people who take Sweet up on this opportunity are reduced to genuine tears, while the others speak about Leonard, Penny, Amy, Sheldon, Bernadette, Raj and Howard like they are their close friends — which is exactly what they are.

Because for all the talk of "The Big Bang Theory"'s legacy and where it might place amongst the pantheon of great sitcoms, what's undeniable is that its characters are as distinctive, original, relatable, and, from time to time, hilarious as any that have come before them.

Live and in the moment, you really understand why "The Big Bang Theory" has attracted an average of 19 million viewers per episode since its sixth season.

16th of May
The final episode of the series will air May 16, 2019.

There's the affection that Johnny Galecki, Jim Parsons, Kaley Cuoco, Simon Helberg, Kunal Nayyar, Mayim Bialik and Melissa Rauch all show each other between takes, which then bleeds over into the filming. But in watching an episode being shot you see just how much time, effort and talent goes into finding and enhancing a laugh.

Almost immediately, director Mark Cendrowski notices that the rapid back-and-forth between Helberg and Rauch is the key to the opening scene. So he makes them shoot it again and again and again at an increasing speed that those in attendance repeatedly lap up.

Cendrowski then realizes from the crowd's reaction that a scripted line isn't strong enough, so he gives Cuoco numerous different quips, each of which she goes in on hard, with varying success, before finally landing the one that works.

Throughout, the nuances of Galecki's facial movements, the improvisation of Helberg and the precision of Parson's every utterance really become prominent. It feels like theatre, just with friends.

Toward the end, Galecki and Cuoco take a break from filming to thank the crowd for their loyalty and devotion over the last 12 years. The raucous response and looming end date mean that the their voices repeatedly break as they talk.

That's clearly something that everyone involved in "The Big Bang Theory" has had to get used to in its last few months and weeks. With every passing episode the hugs between cast and crew get that little bit tighter, the words exchanged more sentimental and meaningful.

But while it may hurt in the present, soon they'll have 274 episodes to proudly look back on and boast about, all while pondering the biggest question of all: What the hell was Penny's last name?

Metropolitan's French macarons. ALL PHOTOS METROPOLITAN BAKERY

Sweet treats and holiday eats

Metropolitan Bakery is offering up delicious treats for Passover and Easter.

MOLLY GIVEN
Molly.Given@metro.us

Easter and Passover are almost here, and that means it's time to bring out the goodies for all of your celebrations and special get-togethers. If you are wondering where you can pick up an enticing treat, you are in luck: Metropolitan Bakery has got you covered. The delicious hot spot is offering up savory and sweet edible offerings to make your holiday truly special. All you have to do is place your order, pick it up, and then you are all set to have the most delicious Easter or Passover ever.

Whether you observe Easter or Passover, there are plenty of unique offerings available to be ordered through Metropolitan's 19th Street location (262 S. 19th St).

Philadelphians can pick up delicious handmade matzo (an unleavened flatbread) in four flavors: plain, sesame, olive and sun-dried tomato. Because these delicious edible offerings are handmade, each piece will be slightly different and are roughly 8 inches by 16 inches. More Passover delicacies include apple coconut macaroons and rugelach, available first come, first served at all of Metropolitan's locations. Metropolitan Bakery is also offering specialty Passover items on their menu including flourless chocolate cake, flourless chocolate almond cake, flourless carrot cake and boxed French macarons.

Easter specialty treats

include cherry ricotta pie, coconut layer cake, carrot layer cake, raspberry chocolate panettone, double-crust apple pie and boxed French macaroons.

Another Easter favorite, hot cross buns, will also be available first come, first served, from Wednesday, April 17 through Sunday, April 21 at all of Metropolitan's locations (note that 19th Street and Metro Cafe close at 3 p.m. on Easter Sunday.)

All of the indulgent specialty treats being offered for Passover and Easter can be ordered from Thursday, April 18 until Sunday, April 21 at the 19th Street location. Metropolitan Bakery is making holiday baking easier than ever. Simply picking up the phone and placing an order will score you a holiday treat that you will never forget.

Philadelphia Sheriff's Office

Sheriff Jewell Williams

Tuesday, May 7th, 2019, 9:00am,
First District Plaza, 3801 Market Street, Philadelphia PA

Overview of the Sheriff Sale Process

There are two types of Sheriff Sales. The Judicial Mortgage Foreclosure Sales and the Tax Sales. The Tax Sales include Tax Lien, Tax Collection, and Tax Delinquent Sales.

Tax Sales

When the owner of a property located in the City of Philadelphia fails to make a payment arrangement on municipal debt levied on his/her property, that property may be sold at the Tax Sheriff Sale to allow the City to collect on that unpaid debt. These debts can include outstanding water and sewer bills, School District of Philadelphia taxes, and city property taxes. The sales also provide individuals the opportunity bid on and become the owner of tax delinquent properties, thereby acquiring lots, houses, or commercial and industrial buildings.

Judicial Mortgage Foreclosure Sale

The Judicial Mortgage Foreclosure Sherriff Sale is the process by which mortgage companies and other financial institutions seek to collect debts owed to them, particularly in instances where a homeowner defaults on his/her mortgage payments. As with Tax Sales, Foreclosure Sales allow individuals the opportunity to bid on properties and become homeowners.

How much will a property cost?

The lowest bid that can be offered is $600 and each successive bid must be made in $100 increments. The highest bidder will win the property and must be prepared to make a $600 or 10% deposit (whichever is highest) with a certified check or money order made out to the "Sheriff of Philadelphia." The remaining balance must be paid within 30 days of the sale. An extension of time to pay the balance is rare but may be granted by the Sheriff upon written request.

The second bidder

If you have been out-bid on a property, you can have your name recorded as the second bidder. If the highest bidder does not pay the balance in 30 days, the second bidder shall be granted the same 30 limit to make settlement with the Sheriff on his/her second bid. The second bidder must be registered on any property immediately after it is sold. The second bidder must present the same amount of deposit that the highest bidder delivers to the Sheriff at the stage. An extension of time under no circumstances will be granted or honored by the Sheriff whenever a second bid is registered at the sale.

How do I learn which properties are to be sold?

All properties that are court ordered to be sold at Sheriff Sales are advertised in the Legal Intelligencer and on a rotating basis in a paper of general circulation. You can also view a list of properties to be sold at Sheriff Sale online by clicking here.

When and where do the Philadelphia Sheriff's Sales take place?

The Judicial Foreclosure Sale is held on the first Tuesday of each month. There are also four different Tax Sales conducted each month and one on a quarterly basis. Click here for a list of all Sheriff Sales currently scheduled. All sales will take place at 9:00 AM at the First District AME Plaza located at 3801 Market Street on the 3rd Floor.

How are the properties identified before and during the sale?

Each property has an identification number called the writ number, which is listed in the newspaper and on our online listing before the property address. This number is used together with the property address when the property is offered for sale. The sale is conducted by an auctioneer who calls out each party by writ number and address.

IMPORTANT: Notice of owner's Right of Redemption after a Tax Delinquent Sale

Even if you win a bid on a Tax Sale property, within nine months of the acknowledgement of the deed, the owner of record can go to court and get permission to recover the property by paying all back taxes and the money paid by the winning bidder. This is called the Right of Redemption. Therefore, if purchase a property through Delinquent Tax Sheriff Sale and invest funds to improve the property in the first year, beware that those funds can be lost. The right of Redemption is only applicable if the property scheduled for Tax Sale is determined to be owner occupied 90 days prior to the sale. If the property is unoccupied or abandoned, there is no Right of Redemption.

The Right of Redemption does not apply to any property sold at the Mortgage Foreclosure Sheriff Sale. One way to protect yourself is to contact the City's Department of Licenses and Inspections to determine what outstanding code violations, if any, exist in the property.

Any work done to correct these violations must be reimbursed to you if the original owner reclaims the property during the Right of Redemption period. Therefore, make sure you get and keep detailed and accurate receipts for code related renovations.

What should you do before you bid?

Take a close look. It is strongly recommended that persons planning to bid at the sales make a site visit to the property prior to the sale. Many persons have bidded on vacant lots thinking that they were bidding on a property containing residential structures. The City is not authorized to permit or arrange for entry into properties listed for Sheriff Sales.

In order to buy a property from any tax sale, you must be tax compliant. Proof of compliance must be provided at the time of final settlement. You can print a certificate of compliance by visiting the website of the City Revenue Department. Once at the site, you will have to accept the terms of the website, then choose "Sheriff Sale" as the compliance type. You will then need to enter the name and tax id number of the person or entity purchasing the property. If the person or entity is tax compliant, you will have an opportunity to print out a compliance certificate. Print this certificate out and bring it with you when you pay final balance of sale. Make sure you have a form of government issued identification. You will need to present this ID at the sale in order to bid.

Consider the rehab costs. While there are some bargains to be had at Sheriff Sales, potential bidders, especially those seeking residential properties, are cautioned that the condition of properties may vary widely.

City loans and grants for income eligible owner occupants are available for Sheriff Sale properties only after the Right of Redemption period has expired. The City has set this policy to ensure that its limited resources do not benefit original owners.

SHERIFF'S SALE

Properties to be sold by JEWELL WILLIAMS Sheriff on Tuesday, May 7, 2019 at First District Plaza, 3801 Market Street, at 9:00 AM. (EST)

Conditions of Sheriff's Sale for JUDICIAL/FORECLOSURE SALE

Ten percent of the highest bid for each property auctioned off shall be deposited in certified check, attorney's check or money order with the Sheriff by each bidder when his bid is registered, provided that in no case shall less than Six Hundred Dollars ($600.00) be deposited, otherwise upon failure or refusal to make such deposit, the bidder shall lose all benefit of his bid and the property may be offered again and sold unless a second bid has been registered, then, the second highest bidder will take the property at the highest bid price.

Additionally, where there is active bidding, the highest bidder, and the second highest bidder, if any must post the entire amount of the cost of the distribution policy for the property at the time of sale by certified check, attorney's check or money order with the Sheriff. The Sheriff reserves the right to reject any certified check, attorney's check or money order that on its face has an expired use date and is presented for payment of the deposit.

The balance of the purchase money must be deposited in certified check, attorney's check or money order together with a Deed poll for execution by the highest bidder to the Sheriff at his office within 30 days from the time of the sale. An extension of time for an additional 30 days may be granted at the discretion of the Sheriff upon receipt of written request from the buyer requesting the same, except when a second bidder has been duly registered. Also, if the first bidder does not complete settlement with the Sheriff within the thirty (30) day time limit and a second bid was registered at the sale, the second bidder shall be granted the same thirty (30) day time limit to make settlement with the Sheriff on his second bid. Thereafter, the Sheriff shall be at liberty to return the writ to court. A second bid must be registered on any property immediately after it is sold. The second bidder must present the same amount of deposit that the highest bidder delivers to the Sheriff at the sale. An extension of time under no circumstances will be granted or honored by the Sheriff whenever a second bid is registered on a property at the sale.

The first bid or opening bid on each property shall be set by the City of Philadelphia. In no event will the successful bidder be allowed to settle on the property unless all the Sheriff's costs are paid notwithstanding the final bid.

The deposit by any bidder who fails to comply with the above conditions of sale shall be forfeited and the funds will be applied to the Sheriff's cost, then to any municipal claims that the City of Philadelphia has on the property. Finally, if a balance still remains, a Sheriff's Distribution Policy will be ordered and the money will be distributed accordingly.

No personal checks, drafts or promises to pay will be accepted in lieu of certified checks, attorney's checks or money orders made payable to the Sheriff of Philadelphia County.

The Sheriff reserves the right to grant further extensions of time to settle and further reserves the right to refuse bids from bidders who have failed to enter deposits on their bids, failed to make settlement, or make fraudulent bids, or any other behavior which causes disruption of the Sheriff Sale. Said bidders shall be so refused for the sale in which said behavior occurred and for said further period of time as the Sheriff in his discretion shall determine.

The Sheriff will not acknowledge a deed poll to any individual or entity using an unregistered fictitious name and may, at his discretion, require proof of identity of the purchaser or the registration of fictitious names. The bid of an unregistered fictitious name shall be forfeited as if the bidder failed to meet the terms of sale.

All bidders are advised to remain at the sale until after the last property is sold. The Sheriff reserves the right to resell any property at any time before the end of the sale, upon the successful bidders' failure to tender the required deposit. The Sheriff reserves the right to postpone or stay the sale of any property in which the attorney on the writ has not appeared and is not present at the sale.

Prospective purchasers are directed to the Web site of the Philadelphia Bureau of Revision of Taxes, (BRT) brtweb.phila.gov for a fuller description of the properties listed. Properties can be looked up by the BRT number – which should be cross checked with the address. Prospective purchasers are also directed to the Room 154 City Hall, 215-686-1483 and to its website philadox.phila.gov and to its website at http://philadox.phila.gov where they can view the deed to each individual property and find the boundaries of the property. PROSPECTIVE PURCHASERS ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR DETERMINING THE NATURE, LOCATION, CONDITION AND BOUNDARIES OF THE PROPERTIES THEY SEEK TO PURCHASE. The BRT # refers to a unique number assigned by the City Bureau of Revision of Taxes to each property in the City for the purpose of assessing it for taxes. This number can be used to obtain descriptive information about the property from the BRT website. Effective Date: July 7, 2006

NOTICE OF SCHEDULE OF DISTRIBUTION

The Sheriff will file in his office, The Land Title Building, 100 South Broad Street, 5th Floor, a Schedule of Distribution Thirty (30) Days from the date of the sale of Real Estate. Distribution will be made in accordance with the Schedule unless exceptions are filed thereto within ten (10) days thereafter.

The name first appearing in each notice is that of the defendant in the writ whose property is being sold. All Writs are Writs of Executions.

The letters C.P., Court of Common Pleas; O.C., Orphans' Court; Q.S., Court of Quarter Sessions; C.C., County Court - indicate the Court out of which the writ of execution issues under which the sale is made: S. 1941. 223. means September Term, 1941. 223, the term and number of the docket entry; the figures following show the amount of debt; and the name following is that of the attorney issuing the writ.

Attention is called to the provisions of Act No.104, approved July 27, 1955, which requires owners of properties which are used, designed or intended to be used by three or more families, or of commercial establishments which contain one or more dwelling units, to deliver to the buyers of such properties a use registration permit at the time of settlement, under certain terms and conditions. Sheriff Sales are not subject to provisions of the said Act and the Sheriff will, therefore, not deliver use registration permits in connection with any sales conducted by him.

Very truly yours,
JEWELL WILLIAMS
Sheriff
City and County of Philadelphia

www.Officeof Philadelphia Sheriff.com

SPECIAL NOTE: All Sheriff's Sales are conducted pursuant to the orders of the Courts and Judges of the First Judicial District. Only properties that are subject to judgments issued by the First Judicial District are listed for sale. By law, the Sheriff's Office cannot decide if a property can be listed for sale; only the District Courts can order a property to be sold at auction.

Flyers move fast, hire veteran boss Alain Vigneault as next head coach

Vigneault becomes the 21st head coach in franchise history.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

The Philadelphia Flyers have hired Alain Vigneault as the 21st head coach in franchise history, the team announced Monday afternoon.

His deal is reportedly worth $25 million over five years, per TSN's Pierre LeBrun.

"We are extremely excited to have Alain join this franchise and lead our team behind the bench for many years to come," Flyers general manager Chuck Fletcher said in a team statement. "He brings a tremendous amount of success over an extended period of time that will prove valuable to our team to take the next steps in returning the winning culture to the Philadelphia Flyers organization."

It brings an end to Scott Gordon's brief tenure as Flyers interim head coach, who performed admirably behind the bench after taking over for Dave Hakstol, who was fired 31 games into the season.

The 56-year-old showed an affinity for working with younger players, especially during his stint as the Lehigh Valley Phantoms head coach, the Flyers' AHL affiliate. In the NHL, Gordon helped with the emergence of Carter Hart into a franchise goalie while Travis Konecny and Travis Sanheim took considerable steps forward in their developments.

While Gordon was a candidate for the job, Fletcher's desire to carry out a head-coaching search only confirmed that the interim bench boss was not the leading candidate to take over on a permanent basis.

It was unclear whether Gordon would return to the Flyers organization in any capacity.

Fletcher vowed that it would be a quick process finding a new head coach, stating that the search would be completed before the 2019 NHL Draft in June.

The Flyers reportedly received permission from the New York Rangers to interview Vigneault last week. He was fired by the Blueshirts following the 2017-18 season, per Sportsnet's Elliotte Friedman.

Vigneault has been one of the more successful coaches in hockey despite not winning a Stanley Cup during his nearly 20-year run as a head coach, which included stops with the Montreal Canadiens and Vancouver Cancuks before leading the Rangers.

Among his most notable accomplishments, Vigneault won the 2007 Jack Adams Award as the NHL's head coach of the year with the Canucks along with the 2011 Western Conference title and Presidents' Trophy in 2011 and 2012.

He captured the 2014 Eastern Conference championship with the Rangers, who fell to the Los Angeles Kings in five games in the Stanley Cup Final, and the 2015 Presidents' Trophy.

The 57-year-old ranks 12th on the NHL's all-time list with 648 victories thanks to seven division titles. Flyers fans can get a sneak peek of Vigneault during the IIHF World Championships in May, where he'll coach Team Canada.

"It is an honor to be selected as the next head coach of the Flyers," Vigneault said. "The history they have established and the passionate fan base have made this a first-class franchise. I am excited to work with Chuck, the talented group of players and prospects coming up through the system, in order to return Philadelphia to the top of the NHL landscape."

He'll have a lengthy checklist alongside Fletcher upon his arrival in Philadelphia. The Flyers are coming off their worst season since 2006-07 and have a number of areas that need to be addressed.

While Fletcher will be tasked in finding a second-line center, wing depth, and defensive help, Vigneault will be responsible for helping further develop those younger players while providing the franchise with a defensive structure that will make them a more well-rounded team in the Metropolitan Division.

History being made in regard to golf betting

For the first time ever, sportsbooks are taking Masters bets a year out.

MATT YOUMANS

Matt Youmans is VSiN's Senior Editor. He spent 16 years at the Las Vegas Review-Journal as a sports betting columnist before joining VSiN.

A few hours after Tigers Woods' win at Augusta, Westgate golf oddsmaker Jeff Sherman took the first-ever step of opening odds on the 2020 Masters a year in advance. Masters odds typically are posted in August after the year's final major. This time, because of Woods' popularity, Sherman decided to treat the Masters similar to Super Bowl futures.

"It's the biggest golf tournament of the year and the one everybody gets involved with, so I decided to put it up for the whole year," said Sherman, who also made Woods the 8/1 Masters favorite. "Look at what Tiger has done. He contended in the last three majors, and he will get the most betting support."

Golf betting is not about to challenge the NFL, but Tiger's latest triumph will resonate and elevate the sport, much like Woods' first major win at the Masters in 1997 and Jack Nicklaus' 18th and final major championship at Augusta in 1986.

"I think this Tiger win at the Masters is bigger than Jack in '86," VSiN golf handicapper Brady Kannon said. "The difference is that nobody gave Nicklaus a chance, and people definitely felt Tiger would be competitive here. Jack came back from four shots down, with four holes to play. Tiger came back from oblivion, on and off the course, and it's thrilling for golf.

GETTY IMAGES

"I never said that Tiger would not win another tournament. In fact, I felt he would, but I was willing to bet against him ever winning another major. It was not as much a bet against him as it was a bet on the current competition in today's game."

William Hill's Nick Bogdanovich is not getting swept away in the Tiger hype. When William Hill posts PGA odds, Bogdanovich said he's not inclined to make Woods the clear-cut favorite and might group him with Dustin Johnson and Rory McIlroy in the 10/1 range.

"I'm not ready to anoint Tiger as the best out there," Bogdanovich said. "I've got him there with Rory and DJ.

"From a pure handicapping standpoint, I don't think Tiger is better than those two guys. The Masters was great drama and great story lines, but I didn't see great golf. Tiger was rock-solid all week and the rest crumbled."

Woods' one-stroke win over younger challengers Johnson, Brooks Koepka and Xander Schauffele was more dramatic than dominant, but it does set the stage for the rest of the year and future years.

How much magic is left in the balding 43-year-old with a bad back? The next two majors set up well for Woods, who won the 2002 U.S. Open at Bethpage and the 2000 U.S. Open at Pebble Beach, the setting for the tournament in June.

"We ask now if Tiger can catch Jack, and can he win three more majors to get to 18 for his career?" Kannon said. "How many more majors can he win this year?"

San Jose Sharks vs. Vegas Golden Knights

Vegas has posted a 5-1 record in their last six playoff games where they were listed as a favorite of -110 to -150 and they have gone an excellent 6-1 in their last seven first-round playoff games overall.

The Knights have also won nine of their last 12 games following a win and they are an impressive 8-3 in their last 10 games at T-Mobile Arena. The Sharks, on the other hand, have struggled a bit in the spot they are in here tonight as they have gone just 4-11 in their last 15 games overall. Throw in the fact that the Golden Knights have dominated the Pacific, winning 46 of their last 68 along with the fact that they are 6-2 in their last eight home games against the Sharks, and we're going to lay the price with them here to get the home win in Vegas on Tuesday night.

THE PICK:
Boston -150

Sports betting 101:
How to bet on baseball

Betting on baseball continues to grow quickly and is expected to be a $1.5 billion regulated betting market for the 2019 season. The main reason why betting on baseball is becoming popular is the vast frequency of regular-season games (2430 in MLB vs. 256 in the NFL).

There are a variety of bets available to make on a baseball game, but backing a team on the moneyline is the easiest baseball bet to understand as you simply pick one team to win.

In each MLB game there is a favorite and an underdog. The favorite is the team that the oddsmakers project to win. Their odds are represented by a minus sign followed by a three-digit number (Phillies -150). The underdog is the team the oddsmakers project to lose and their team odds are represented by a plus sign followed by a three-digit number (Mets +130).

Here's how the betting works in this example. Bet/risk $150 on Phillies (the favorite) to win $100 or bet/risk $100 on the Mets (the underdog) to win $130.

GETTY IMAGES

The sportsbook oddsmaker uses a variety of data and stats to set the line, however baseball odds are predominately determined by the starting pitchers.

For instance, when a pitcher like the Phillies' Aaron Nola (with a record of 17-6 in the 2018 season) is the starting pitcher, the Phillies will most often be the favorite.

Enjoy this baseball season and swing by your favorite sportsbook on the way to the ballpark to bet on your favorite team … and pitcher.

Betting breakdown of the Stanley Cup playoffs

GETTY IMAGES

Can the Islanders finish off a four-game sweep of the Penguins on the road Tuesday night?

Betting markets are skeptical. But, they've been skeptical of the Islanders since before the series began.

*Pittsburgh closed as a -135 favorite to win the series before it began, despite not enjoying home-ice advantage.

*Pittsburgh closed as a -125 road favorite in Game 2 after dropping the series opener. Some sharps (professional bettors) and most squares (recreational bettors) couldn't resist taking the "superior" team to zig-zag in a bounce-back spot.

*Pittsburgh closed as a whopping -200 favorite at home in Game 3. Bettors thinking "there's no way the Penguins are going to lose three in a row to the Islanders" learned once again that bad roulette strategies can be very painful at sportsbooks.

There's plenty of time before they drop the puck for game-day lines to settle. You can be sure that Pittsburgh will be a pricey favorite once again Tuesday with its back against the wall. Pricey favorites have been awful this postseason! No team laying -200 or higher has won a game yet.

That's a composite record of zero wins and 9.9 losses in real money terms.

Hockey is played on ice, not chalk (Vegas slang for favorites because odds used to be written on chalkboards in the old days).

Thus far vs. the Isles, Pittsburgh's been outplayed emphatically when it was time to perform. The Penguins have been outscored 6-2 at even strength over the last two games despite trailing most of those games on the scoreboard and every second of those games in the series.

When analyzing the NHL playoffs, professional bettors look for teams that can control the flow of play.

Check out how the underdog Islanders have stayed in control of the last two games while expressing surprising superiority.

*Game 2 Shots: New York 34, Pittsburgh 33; "Expected Goals: New York 3.7, Pittsburgh 2.6.

*Game 3 Shots: New York 36, Pittsburgh 26; "Expected Goals: New York 3.5, Pittsburgh 2.2.

Nobody can make the case that New York hasn't earned its series edge. It's common for the trailing team in a game to win shot counts because they're aggressively trying to rally. The Isles are winning shot counts from ahead.

That makes the Isles prohibitive market favorites to eventually advance, even if they don't finish off a sweep.

Phillies–Mets betting preview

First 5 Innings Line: Phillies vs. Mets EVEN

Even the most die-hard Phils fan will be hesitant to put much faith in Nick Pivetta, especially considering the rocky start he's gotten off to this season. Pivetta has had three starts this year and has given up at least seven hits in each of them. In his most recent outing, the Nationals blitzed the righty for seven earned runs and Gabe Kapler gave him the hook in the fourth. The longest Pivetta has lasted in a game so far this year was the home game against the Twins on April 5, when he pitched five innings. Pivetta still gave up nine hits in that outing and was far from impressive.

Mets starter Steven Matz has been just the opposite so far in 2019 as he's 1-0 with a sparkling 1.65 ERA and 1.04 WHIP through three games and 16.1 innings pitched.

Matz has struck out eight batters in each of his last two games and is 10 days removed from firing a two-hitter against the Nationals.

Expect the Mets to beat up Pivetta early. The New York offense is second in the National League in runs scored this season, trailing only the Dodgers, with 91.

MASTERS WINNER WOODS A GREAT GOLFER BUT HE'S NOT A HERO TO ME

THE SPORTS PROFESSOR

GLEN MACNOW
@RealGlenMacnow

Tiger Woods won his fifth Masters title on Sunday afternoon at Augusta National. GETTY IMAGES

The world celebrated Sunday as Tiger Woods secured his fifth Masters and first major title since 2008. Broadcasters palpitated over the 43-year-old golfer's amazing return from physical ailments, depression and what they gently termed "some personal matters."

"The world is rooting for this one," Australian commentator Ian Baker-Finch said at the end. "For Tiger Woods to come back... is a wonderful Cinderella story."

Maybe, but I preferred the Cinderella story featuring Bill Murray in "Caddyshack." So allow me to confess: While I was among the millions riveted to my TV Sunday afternoon, I represent the handful who were not cheering for this contrived Tiger Woods redemption story.

You'll get no argument that Tiger's accomplishment was outstanding. In terms of all-time sports comebacks, this ranks behind only Muhammad Ali regaining the heavyweight crown after the government stripped it from him at his prime and banned him from boxing for three years.

Woods' downfall, unlike Ali's, was largely his own creation. We all remember the story that broke a decade ago with his then-wife, Elin, chasing him down the street with a golf club of her own. Soon the tabloids and social media exposed Tiger as a serial cheater, and his paramours started emerging from every sand trap.

Tiger's career spiraled down.

Of course, a pro athlete with a roving eye is far from unique. And, in Tiger's case, unfaithfulness was a lesson learned straight from his father, Earl Woods. Earl had raised Tiger to be a champion from the very start. But he also raised an automaton who, by all accounts, lacked friends, human decency and any sort of compassion toward fellow golfers or fans.

"Even the most basic human civilities — a simple hello or thank you — routinely went missing from his vocabulary. A nod was too much to expect," wrote authors Jeff Benedict and Armen Keteyian in their 2018 bio, "Tiger Woods."

The book is not a smear job — although it's rife with stories of coaches, caddies, girlfriends and others whom Woods excised from his life without so much as a handshake. There is a myriad of examples of Woods' rudeness toward fans. You come away feeling some sympathy for Tiger as the victim of bulldozer parenting — but also dismay that he never grew out of it.

One of the fun aspects of sports is we get to choose whom we cheer for. Well, not always. Often, in team sports, our obsession with rooting for the laundry forces us to defend — or at least accept — the guy in green who gets caught up in a 3 a.m. bar fight.

But being a fan in individual sports requires no tribalism. You didn't have to pull for the guy in the red mock turtleneck Sunday just because every broadcaster and golf columnist declared this the greatest salvation saga of our time.

That's another oddity about sports (and politics). Winning washes away transgressions. People suddenly develop positive character traits when they stay out of the rough. And so it was with Tiger on Sunday when the golf world wasn't just eager to see him win the Masters, but a Nobel Prize as well.

Sorry, I can't join in this parade. I was rooting for Tony Finau — who finished two behind. Finau once hit an errant ball into the crowd, striking a young girl. That night he showed up at her house with flowers, chocolates and the time to make a new fan. He also funds a foundation to help underprivileged kids in his hometown of Rose Park, Utah.

You choose your heroes, I'll choose mine.
